

Environment and participation

Sally Bullock and Kate Williams

In order to implement the Participation and Environment components of the ICF, it is necessary to think about:

- the single list of domains of Activities and Participation and options for using them;
- qualifiers, or measures, which are recognised as being essential to meaningful application; and
- the Environment component and how to record it.

This paper attempts to do this.