Preface

Disability Support Services 2001: First National Results on Services Provided under the CSDA informs Australians about services funded under the CSDA for people with disabilities in Australia. These first results are published primarily on the AIHW web-site. A more comprehensive publication will follow during 2002, to be published both electronically on the AIHW web-site and as a printed report.

The Commonwealth/State Disability Agreement Minimum Data Set (CSDA MDS) was developed in 1993 and 1994 jointly by all States and Territories, the Commonwealth and the Australian Institute of Health and Welfare. The first data collection was undertaken in 1995, and data from the subsequent annual collections have been widely used by government departments and the community.

The 2001 data are the fifth national collation where all jurisdictions have been fully represented, and the cooperation of all States and Territories and the Commonwealth is gratefully acknowledged.

The collection is currently being redeveloped, particularly in light of continuing changes in the method of service delivery, for example the growing use of individualised case funding and brokerage models, and the resulting changes in information needed. The CSDA MDS redevelopment began during 1999 in partnership with National Disability Administrators, and implementation of the redeveloped collection is scheduled for mid to late 2002.

Acknowledgments

The authors of this report were Phil Anderson and Tim Beard. The report continues to build on previous reports of the Institute and on contributions from all jurisdictions.

The successful completion of this 2001 collection owes much to:

- the service providers and consumers who completed questionnaires and provided comments;
- all departments, organisations, peak bodies and individuals who provided suggestions or comments; and
- the staff in the disability services funding departments who conducted the mail-out, help-lines, collection, compilation and editing of questionnaires and data at the Commonwealth, State and Territory level.

Our thanks go to all these people.

Specific thanks are due to the following people who, as part of the Commonwealth/State Disability Agreement Minimum Data Set (CSDA MDS) Network, provided a point of contact in each of the departments that fund CSDA services, and who coordinated the collection in their jurisdiction:

Ageing & Disability Department (NSW)	Proshanta Dey
Department of Human Services (Victoria)	Carsten Peterson
Disability Services Queensland	Lynda MacKenzie
Disability Services Commission (WA)	Dana Bensky
Department of Human Services (SA)	Jo Perkins
Department of Community and Health Services (Tasmania)	Sue Prestedge
Department of Health and Community Care (ACT)	Geoff Wells
Territory Health Services (NT)	Tracy Clark
Department of Family and Community Services (Commonwealth)	Michael Cooper

Special thanks also to Allan Dernee, Bridget Wickham, Chris Kinsella, Cate Thomas, and Julie Searle, who assisted with the collection within their jurisdictions, and Ros Madden, Xing-yan Wen and Chrysanthe Psychogios at the AIHW.

Disability support services: first national results, 2001

1 Introduction

This report provides data relating to services provided or funded in 2001 by the Commonwealth Government and the State and Territory Governments under the Commonwealth/State Disability Agreement (CSDA). The most recent CSDA, signed in 1998, places responsibility on the Commonwealth for the planning, policy setting and management of employment services, and the States and Territories for all specialist disability services except employment services. Advocacy, print disability and information services are shared responsibilities under this agreement.

This summary includes the first national results for the 2001 collection. It relates to data collected on a 'snapshot' day in 2001, about consumers using CSDA-funded services and outlets providing these services. It also describes the annual data collection used to obtain the data, some of the important definitions for terms used in collecting the data and gives information about response rates. Appendixes 1 and 2 include some performance indicators for disability services in 2001.

The major report on the 2001 collection will be published by the AIHW in mid-2002, and will be titled Disability Support Services 2001: National Data on Services Provided under the Commonwealth/State Disability Agreement. This forthcoming report will include further information relating to CSDA-funded service outlets and consumers using these services. The additional information will include support needs, method of communication, main income source and living arrangements for consumers, and staff hours and periods of operation for service outlets.

2 CSDA MDS collections: methods and definitions

The CSDA Minimum Data Set (MDS) collections are conducted under the auspices of the National Disability Administrators comprising the heads of government disability services throughout Australia.

Data were collected by each jurisdiction in relation to services provided under the CSDA, and the national data collated by the AIHW. Services provided under the CSDA are designed for people who need ongoing support with everyday life activities. Services included under the CSDA umbrella vary from State to State. In particular, psychiatric services and early childhood intervention services are not considered to be under the Agreement in all States.

Service providers completed a Service Form and forwarded multiple Consumer Forms (completed in relation to each service recipient) to each jurisdiction.

The 2001 CSDA MDS collection was conducted on a snapshot day in May–June 2001, and covers State, Territory and Commonwealth CSDA-funded services.

Definitions used for the collection

The most significant counts and terms used in this report are defined in Box 1. Since a person may receive more than one service on the snapshot day, the number of services received is more than the number of consumers in the collection. The number of consumers using CSDA-funded services on the snapshot day is estimated through the use of a statistical linkage key, which removes double counting without identifying individuals. The linkage key was first used to identify consumers in the 1999 collection. For more information on the application of the statistical linkage key, please refer to the AIHW report Disability Support Services Provided under the Commonwealth/State Disability Agreement: National Data, 1999, section 2.6 and appendix 6.

In 2001, the overall estimate of consumers on the snapshot day is 63,830. This compares with 77,205 services received, meaning that, on average, each consumer used 1.21 services on the snapshot day.

3 Summary of first national results 2001

On the snapshot day in 2001, 63,830 consumers used a total of 77,205 CSDA-funded services from 7,704 service outlets Australia-wide. This compares with 62,341 consumers on the 2000 snapshot day (an increase of 2.4%) using 74,929 services (an increase of 3.0%) from 7,378 outlets (a 4.4% increase).

Response rates (see table 1)

Overall, 97% of service outlets returned a service form in 2001.

State distribution and service type (see Tables 2 and 3, and Figure 1)

Just over one-third of the total 63,830 consumers were in Victoria (21,868 or 35%). New South Wales had the next highest number (16,877), followed by Queensland (8,546) and Western Australia (7,513, Table 2).

Of the 63,830 consumers in all service types:

- 34% of consumers used accommodation support services, which incorporated both institutional and community settings (Table 2);
- 28% used employment services, covering open labour market services and supported employment services;
- 27% used community support services, which included early childhood intervention, specific therapies, counselling and recreation programs;
- 25% used community access services, mainly covering educational, social and daily living activities; and
- 4% used respite services, which provide short-term breaks from caring activities to carers of people with a disability.

Of all the States and Territories, Victoria had the most consumers using accommodation support (7,068), community support (5,525), community access (7,979) and respite services (998). New South Wales had the largest number of consumers using employment services (6,019).

Age and sex (see Table 4 and Figure 2)

- Just over 58% (37,136) of consumers were male;

- All 5-year age groups contained more males than females except the 70+ group;
- The age groups containing the most consumers were the 30–34 year group (6,967), and the 35–39 year age group (6,949); and
- 52% of consumers were aged between 20 and 44.

Indigenous origin (see Table 5)

- 2.6% of all consumers were of Indigenous origin;
- Three States/Territories had a higher proportion of Indigenous consumers than the national average, namely the Northern Territory (46.4%), Western Australia (3.8%) and Queensland (3.7%);
- Four States/Territories had a lower proportion of Indigenous consumers than to the national average, South Australia and Tasmania (both 1.8%), Victoria (1.4%) and the Australian Capital Territory (1.3%); and
- 'Not known' and 'not stated' responses for Indigenous origin were much lower in 2001 than in 2000, falling from 7.6% (4,732 consumers) to 4.6% (2,946 consumers).

Disability group (see Tables 6 and 7)

- The most reported primary disability group was intellectual disability, with 37,575 consumers (59%);
- The second most reported primary disability group was physical disability, with 7,911 consumers (12.4%); and
- 49% of consumers had more than one disability.

CSDA service outlets (see Table 8 and Figure 3)

There were 7,712 service outlets funded to provide services in 2001. Of these:

- 25% were provided through government organisations;
- 40% were provided through charitable/religious non-government organisations; and
- 35% were provided through other non-government organisations.

Of these outlets:

- A total of 3,405 (44%) provided accommodation support services;
- 1,785 (23%) provided community access services;
- 1,098 (14%) provided community support services;
- 813 (11%) provided employment services; and
- 519 (7%) provided respite services.

1. Figures are the percentage of services surveyed by each data source.
2. Data integrity and quality checking by the Department of Family and Community Services (FaCS) was incomplete for Commonwealth data available to the AIHW as at 12 December 2001.

Box 1: Definitions and major counts of the CSDA MDS collection

Consumer	A consumer is a person who receives a CSDA service.
Service	A service is a support activity delivered to a consumer, in accordance with the CSDA. Services within the scope of the collection are those for which funding has been provided by a government organisation operating under the CSDA. A consumer may receive more than one service over any time period, including on the snapshot day itself.
Service type	A service type is the support activity which the service outlet has been funded to provide under the CSDA. The MDS classifies services according to service type. The service type classification groups services into six categories: accommodation support, employment support, community access, community support, respite and other support. Within each of these categories there are subcategories (see, for example, Table 3).
Service outlet	A service outlet is a service provider providing a particular CSDA service type. If a service provider provides, say, both accommodation support and respite services, it is counted as two outlets. Similarly, if a service provider provides more than one accommodation support service type (for example, group homes and attendant care) then it is providing (and is usually separately funded for) two different service types, that is, there are two service outlets for the provider.
Service provider	A service provider is an organisation that delivers one or more CSDA service types. It is service providers generally that fill out CSDA MDS forms: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• a Service Form for each service type funded (that is, a Service Form for each outlet); and• for each service type (or outlet), a Consumer Form for each consumer receiving that service type on the snapshot day (except for advocacy, information, print disability).
Auspecting organisation	Some service providers are part of a wider organisation—either non-government or government—that most directly controls the service’s operations. The auspice of a service generally indicates the type of organisation. However, Commonwealth government-auspected services can include services provided by universities, although the services are not provided directly by the Commonwealth Government.
‘Potential population’	The ‘potential population’ is the number of people under 65 years with the potential to require disability services, as indicated by their profound or severe core activity restriction. For employment services, children aged under 15 are excluded from the ‘potential population’ data.

Notes

1. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access more than one service type on the snapshot day. There were 43 consumers who accessed services in more than one State or Territory, mainly in 'border' areas.
2. Data for consumers of CSDA-funded services with service types Advocacy, Information/referral, Combined advocacy/information, Print disability/alt. formats of communication, Service evaluation/training, Peak bodies, Research/development and Other were not collected.
3. Data provided by the Commonwealth are preliminary and cover 99% of Commonwealth-funded services.

Appendix 1: Performance indicators

Background

The development of performance indicators supports national outcome and performance monitoring in many community services areas (see AIHW 1997a, pages 2–6; SCRCSSP 1997). Since 1996 the report on the CSDA MDS collection has included some effectiveness performance indicators for disability services at the request of the National Disability Administrators. For 2001, the performance indicators will be made available in electronic form on the AIHW web-site only.

The consumer data used for the performance indicators differ from the CSDA MDS collection and other data in this report by the exclusion of psychiatric services (see Tables A1.3 and A1.4). This exclusion was performed by removing from the 2001 CSDA MDS data set, records of recipients of services specified by each jurisdiction as being psychiatric services. The purpose of this exclusion is to facilitate interstate comparison, meaning the Commonwealth has no exclusion of such records.

The data used for the performance indicators in Tables A1.1 to A1.19 were supplied by the AIHW to the Steering Committee for the Review of Commonwealth/State Service Provision (SCRCSSP). The final tables were supplied in January 2002 when data from all jurisdictions were available.

Those tables that use data from the States and Territories (Tables A1.3, A1.5, A1.6, A1.7, A1.8, A1.10, A1.11, A1.13, A1.15, A1.17 and A1.18) were originally supplied to the SCRCSSP in October 2001, before 2002 data were available from the Commonwealth. However, the statistical linkage key allows the identification of consumers who received both an employment service from the Commonwealth and another service from a State or Territory on the snapshot day. This means that it is possible for the linkage analysis to result in small changes in the State and Territory tables if the full data (including the Commonwealth) are used. (For example, a consumer may have a missing value for a data item recorded for their State service, but a valid value recorded for their Commonwealth service. In this case, the value in the Commonwealth data will be used and so will replace the missing value in the State record). For those tables where there were such changes the tables based on the State and Territory data only are given in Appendix 2. These are Tables A2.5, A2.6, A2.11, A2.13, A2.15, A2.17 and A2.18. The numbering of the tables corresponds in the two appendixes (e.g. Table A2.5 based on State and Territory data only, corresponds to Table A1.5 based on the full data set).

Tables A1.1 and A1.2 contain relevant basic population data. Details of the methods used to produce the performance indicators can be found in AIHW (1997b; 2000) and Black et al. (1998).

Notes

1. Data are estimates. Figures for all people (weighted per person) and Indigenous factor are rounded to the nearest 0.01, though unrounded figures have been used for further calculations.
2. Data for all people (weighted) were calculated by multiplying the data for Indigenous Australians by two and adding the data for non-Indigenous Australians. Hence Indigenous Australians are weighted at two and non-Indigenous Australians at one.
3. Data for all people (weighted per person) were calculated by dividing the all people (weighted) data by the sum of the Indigenous Australians data and the non-Indigenous Australians data.
4. The Indigenous factors adjust the data for all people (weighted per person) to figures relative to an arbitrary figure for Australia of 100. They were calculated by multiplying the all people (weighted per person) data by 100 and dividing by the all people (weighted per person) total for Australia.

Notes

1. Data are estimates. Population estimates of 1,900 or less have a relative standard error of 50% or more. Estimates of 8,000 or less have a relative standard error of 25% or more.
2. Data for all people are ABS estimated resident populations at 31 December 2000 for people aged less than 65 years.
3. 2000 data for people with profound or severe core activity restriction are estimates derived using the ABS 1998 Survey of Disability, Ageing and Carers data.
4. The potential population for accommodation services is the number of people aged under 65 years, with profound and/or severe core activity restriction, adjusted for the Indigenous factor (Table A1.1) for that jurisdiction.
5. The potential population for community access service is the number of people aged 15–64 years, with profound and/or severe core activity restriction, adjusted for the Indigenous factor (Table A1.1) for that jurisdiction.
6. The potential population for employment services is the number of people aged 15–64 years with severe or profound core activity restriction, multiplied by both the Indigenous factor and the labour force participation rate for that jurisdiction.

1. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access both a government and a non-government service on the snapshot day or services from more than one State or Territory for accommodation support, community support and community access services.
2. Totals include 6 consumers of two accommodation support services in South Australia that were not identified as government or non-government.
3. Data for consumers of CSDA services funded by the States and Territories exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.
4. Data for consumers of CSDA-funded services with service types Advocacy, Information/referral, Combined advocacy/information, Print disability/alt. formats of communication, Service evaluation/training, Peak bodies, Research/development and Other were not collected.

Notes

1. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where primary disability group was inconsistently recorded the person was allocated a primary disability group according to a standard method (see AIHW 2001). Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
2. Data for consumers of CSDA services funded by the States and Territories exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.
3. Data provided by the Commonwealth are preliminary and cover 99% of Commonwealth-funded services.

Notes

1. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where disability groups were inconsistently recorded for the same person all recorded types were included. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
2. Data for consumers of CSDA services funded by the States and Territories exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

3. Data provided by the Commonwealth are preliminary and cover 99% of Commonwealth-funded services.

Notes

1. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where the service type was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the consumer was counted as receiving an 'institution/large residential or hostel' accommodation support service. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
2. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.
3. Community-based or 'in-home' accommodation support services are Group homes, Attendant care, Outreach/other 'in-home'/drop-in support, Alternative family placement, and Other accommodation.

Notes

1. The population data are estimates. They are rounded to the nearest 100, though unrounded figures have been used for further calculations.
2. The potential population for accommodation services is the number of people aged under 65 years, with profound and/or severe core activity restriction, adjusted for the Indigenous factor for that jurisdiction. Due to this adjustment the sum of the potential populations of the jurisdictions is not necessarily equal to the national total.
3. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
4. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Notes

1. The population data are estimates. They are rounded to the nearest 100, though unrounded figures have been used for further calculations.
2. The potential population for employment services is the number of people aged 15-64 years with severe or profound core activity restriction, multiplied by both the Indigenous factor and the labour force participation rate for that jurisdiction
3. Data for consumers of CSDA-funded employment support services exclude services identified by jurisdictions as being psychiatric services. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day.

Notes

1. Severity of core activity restriction is derived using data on level of support needed in one or more of the support areas: self-care, mobility and communication. Consumers with profound core activity restriction reported a continual need for support in one or more of these areas. Consumers with severe core activity restriction reported occasional or frequent need for support in one or more of these areas. Consumers with moderate or no core activity restriction reported needing no support in one or more of these areas.
2. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where the level of support need was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the person was allocated a level of support according to a standard method (see AIHW 2001). Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
3. The table excludes 293 consumers who did not report a need for support with one or more of the areas: self-care, mobility, or communication. Hence consumer totals do not necessarily match those in Table A.3.
4. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Notes

1. Data for consumers of 'non-English-speaking origin' were based on consumer responses for country of birth being other than Australia, New Zealand, Canada, United Kingdom, South Africa, Ireland or the United States of America.
2. The State and Territory data on the non-English-speaking origin population are derived from the corresponding 1996 Australian Census proportional distribution applied to the ABS national estimate of 2000 country of birth data. They exclude people whose non-English-speaking origin was not stated or who were visitors to Australia from overseas.
3. Data for all Australians exclude people whose birthplace was not stated, or who were visitors to Australia from overseas.
4. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where country of birth was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the consumer was counted having a non-English-speaking origin.
5. Data for all consumers excludes 618 consumers whose non-English-speaking origin was 'not known' or 'not stated'; thus totals may differ from other sections of this report.
6. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Notes

1. The State and Territory data on the rural and remote population are derived by the AIHW from ABS statistical local area population estimates from June 2000.
2. Data for rural and remote consumers was based on the postcode of the consumer except for South Australia and Northern Territory for which it was based on the postcode of the service outlet. A postcode was classified as rural or remote if more than 50% of the population in the postcode area are so classified.
3. Data for rural and remote consumers (per 1,000) are per rural and remote people, that is, the rural and remote consumer data divided by the rural and remote Australians data multiplied by 1,000.
4. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where postcode was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the consumer was counted as rural/remote on the basis of at least one postcode being so classified. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
5. Data for all consumers excludes 626 consumers whose postcode was not known, thus totals may differ from other tables.
6. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Appendix 2: Performance indicator tables based on State and Territory data only

The following tables were provided by the AIHW to the Steering Committee for Review of Commonwealth/State Service Provision in October 2001 before 2001 data were available from the Commonwealth, and thus were based on State and Territory data only. There are some small differences to the corresponding tables in Appendix 1, which are based on the full CSDA minimum data set including data from the Commonwealth (see Appendix 1 for further explanation).

Notes

1. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where primary disability group was inconsistently recorded the person was allocated a primary disability group according to a standard method (see AIHW 2001). Row totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
2. Data for consumers of CSDA services funded by the States and Territories exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Notes

1. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where disability groups were inconsistently recorded for the same person all recorded types were included. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
2. Data for consumers of CSDA services funded by the States and Territories exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Total	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0

Notes

1. Severity of core activity restriction is derived using data on level of support needed in one or more of the support areas: self-care, mobility and communication. Consumers with profound core activity restriction reported a continual need for support in one or more of these areas. Consumers with severe core activity restriction reported occasional or frequent need for support in one or more of these areas. Consumers with moderate or no core activity restriction reported needing no support in all of these areas.
2. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where the level of support need was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the person was allocated a level of support according to a standard method (see AIHW 2001). Row totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
3. The table excludes 296 consumers who did not report on a need for support with any of the areas: self-care, mobility, or communication.
4. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Notes

1. Data for Indigenous consumers (per 1,000) are per 1,000 Indigenous people, that is, the Indigenous consumer data divided by the Indigenous Australians data multiplied by 1,000.
2. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where Indigenous status was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the consumer was counted as an Indigenous Australian on the basis of one such response. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
3. Data for all consumers excludes 626 consumers whose Indigenous origin was 'not known' or 'not stated', thus totals may differ from other tables.
4. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.

Notes

1. Data for consumers of 'non-English-speaking origin' were based on consumer responses for country of birth other than Australia, New Zealand, Canada, United Kingdom, South Africa, Ireland or the United States of America.
2. The State and Territory data on the non-English-speaking origin population are derived from the corresponding 1996 Australian Census proportional distribution of population of States and Territories applied to the ABS national estimate of 2000 country of birth data. They exclude people whose non-English-speaking origin was not stated or who were visitors to Australia from overseas.
3. Data for all Australians exclude people whose birthplace was not stated, or who were visitors to Australia from overseas.
4. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where country of birth was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the consumer was counted as having a non-English-speaking origin on the basis of one such response.
5. Data for all consumers excludes 754 consumers whose non-English-speaking origin was 'not known' or 'not stated', thus totals may differ from other sections of this report.
6. Data for consumers of CSDA accommodation support services exclude psychiatric services specifically identified by the jurisdiction.
7. Data for consumers of non-English-speaking origin (per 1,000) are per 1,000 people of non-English-speaking origin, that is, the non-English-speaking origin consumer data divided by the non-English-speaking origin Australians data multiplied by 1,000.

Notes

1. The State and Territory data on the rural and remote population are derived by the AIHW from ABS statistical local area population estimates from June 2000.
2. Data for rural and remote consumers was based on the postcode of the consumer except for South Australia and Northern Territory for which it was based on the postcode of the service outlet. A postcode was classified as rural or remote if more than 50% of the population in the postcode area are so classified.
3. Data for rural and remote consumers (per 1,000) are per rural and remote people, that is, the rural and remote consumer data divided by the rural and remote Australians data multiplied by 1,000.
4. Consumer data are estimates after use of a statistical linkage key to account for individuals who have received more than one service on the snapshot day. Where postcode was inconsistently recorded for the same consumer, the consumer was counted as rural/remote on the basis of at least one postcode being so classified. Totals may not be the sum of the components since individuals may access services from more than one jurisdiction on the snapshot day.
